

Date: June 16, 2003
Contact: Renee Langemach
530-583-4720
renee@gilweepr.com

For Immediate Release

Seventh Annual “Leading Estates of the World” Tour Hosted June 25

(LAKE TAHOE, Nevada) – Tahoe-based real estate agency Chase International Distinctive Properties will host their seventh annual Leading Estates of the World Tour Wednesday, June 25 from 10:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m.

Giving an inside view into the value for living on the water’s edge, this invitation-only event will feature 19 of Lake Tahoe’s most exclusive homes, with 15 of those homes lakefronts. The price of homes on tour range from $1.795 million to as high as $36 million, representing the most expensive home for sale in Lake Tahoe today.

Chase International hosts the event in an effort to connect high-end properties with select brokers and top producing agents, architects, builders and special clients. This year 2,000 invitations are being sent to Reno and Sacramento, San Francisco and beyond. According to Shari Chase, president, founder and CEO of Chase International, this event is great exposure for clients selling their homes, often aiding in the sale of some of the estates featured on the tour.

“The homes on this tour are the crème de la crème of Tahoe, and are testament to the immense value people place on one of the most magical, bluest bodies of water in the world,” said Chase. “This year the stakes are even higher, with the three highest end estates on the tour priced at $24, $32.5 and $36 million. That’s more than three times higher than the most expensive property showcased last year.”

Attendees of the tour will peruse as many of the 19 homes at their leisure, with a map guiding them to the 13 homes located on Tahoe’s East/South Shores and six on the West/North Shores. Owners of these estates all hail from various regions of the United States, with one from Florida, Reno, another from Chicago, a surprising handful local to Tahoe and six from the Bay Area—an area with historical ties and an elite class visiting the shores of Tahoe for more than 100 years.

Refreshments and lunch will be provided courtesy of Steve Peterson from Partners Mortgage at 1820 Highway 50, located just south of Glenbrook. Lunch will also be provided at 1970 West Lake Boulevard located at Sunnyside, courtesy of Harry Gordon from Lake Tahoe Mortgage Corporation and Mike Alagna from West End Catering. Each estate will also be attended by one of Chase International’s estate agents, who are top ranked with the highest volume in sales per agent in Lake Tahoe.

With its headquarters in Lake Tahoe, Nevada since 1986, Chase International also has three other offices in the region, and one in London. The firm handles a large share of the world's most desirable property, servicing prestigious clientele including nobility, corporate heads, entertainers and dignitaries worldwide. It is responsible for the sale of Lake Tahoe's Thunderbird Lodge for $50 million, representing the highest priced residential sale in U.S. history. Chase International is also affiliated with Leading ESTATES of the World, Sotheby's International Realty, Who's Who in Luxury Real Estate and The Registry. Chase International also utilizes its membership opportunities in the National Association of Realtors International Division, Woman's Council of Realtors and the International Real Estate Federation (an international network of 7,000 real estate professionals, attorneys, accountants, banks and related services.) For more information about the tour, please call Chase International's Pat Gannon at 775-588-6130.

#